

BLOG, L.A. THINGS TO DO, LA, LOS ANGELES, RESTAURANTS | AUGUST 3, 2015 BY XTINA | COMMENTS OFF ON RESTAURANTS | BEST NEW BRUNCH IN LOS ANGELES

Best New Brunch in Los Angeles

Salmon roe avocado toast at Petrossian. Just one of our favorite new brunch dishes in Los Angeles.

From salmon roe avocado toast to donut sundaes, here are some must-visit restaurants for brunch in Los Angeles.

Edited by Christina Xenos

Petrossian

What's better than an egg on top? How about a heap of Transmontanus caviar? At the pristinely designed West Hollywood outpost of Petrossian, you can indulge in the purveyor's selection of caviars and smoked fishes throughout their brunch menu. Kick off your meal with a sublime lavender mimosa and move on to selections from Chef Giselle Wellman like caviar scrambled eggs with whipped vodka creme, micro herbs and toast; eggs Benedict with smoked salmon and caviar; brioche French toast with dulce de leche, bananas and strawberries and sunny-side up eggs with grains. You may also want to inquire of Wellman's newest creations like her over-the-top salmon roe avocado toast that's served with a side of egg whites (one of our favorite avocado toasts of the city), and the unique-but-familiar tarte aux pommes de terre, a latke topped with creme fraiche and 20g of Transmontanus caviar. 321 N Robertson Blvd, West

Hollywood, 310.271.6300. petrossian.com

Strand House

Shouldn't every brunch end with a deluge of donuts? When you venture to head toward the water in Manhattan Beach, you not only get the opportunity to dine on the only patio with ocean views in the 'hood, you can also opt into Donut Sundae Sundays. Each Sunday Pastry Chef Stephanie Franz conjures a different donut-ice cream collaboration like "The Elvis," a banana-glazed donut with peanut drizzle, salted peanuts, chocolate mouse, bacon ice cream and a liquid chocolate injection. But that's only if you've saved room after gorging on Executive Chef Greg Hozinsky's weekend brunch menu, which includes favorites like lemon ricotta pancakes, corn beef hash and eggs, huevos rancheros and chicken and waffles. 117 Manhattan Beach Blvd., Manhattan Beach, 310.545.7470. thestrandhousemb.com

Donuts from Pastry Chef Stephanie Franz at Strand House.